Index Outlook

Domestic equity markets finished the week on a high note, tracking positive global cues and lower crude oil prices. Benchmark indices reached new highs during the week but profit-taking dragged the markets lower on Friday. Global stock markets rose after the Federal Reserve signaled led that it may slow the pace of interest rate hikes in the future. Finally, Nifty Future settled on a positive note at 18813 up by 0.89% (WoW) with an addition in open interest of 5.28% (WoW) indicating neutral to a positive bias in the market. The volatility index India VIX closed at 13.45% with minor gains, indicating comfort for bulls. We expect volatility will remain high due to geopolitical issues. Another derivatives indicator, Nifty Put-Call ratio currently stands on a lower note at 0.94 (WoW). Technically, the index had witnessed the breakout of an inverted head and shoulder pattern on the weekly scale and cross an all-time high. According to this pattern, the index might test the levels of 19000-19200 in the near term and 21000 in the longer term as long as it holds the support at 16747 on a weekly closing basis. The recent breakout point of the index is placed close to 18600, which will act as immediate support for the index followed by 18000. Going forward, the Rupee movement against the Dollar, RBI policy, bond yields movement, macroeconomic data, Fii's flow, geopolitical worries, and crude oil price movement will dictate the trend on the bourses next week.

Technical View

Nifty 02-Dec, Weekly Chart

- In the November series, the index found support at the previous breakout point and gained traction thanks to a hammer formation close to the recent breakout zone. On the back of that, the index has crossed the previous all-time high and settled the week on the positive note at 18696.
- Technically, the index had witnessed the breakout of an inverted head and shoulder pattern on weekly scale and cross the all-time high. According to this pattern, the index might test the levels of 19000-19200 in the near term and 21000 in the longer term as long as it holds the support at 16747 on a weekly closing basis.
- The recent breakout point of the index is placed close to 18600, which will act as a immediate support for the index followed by 18000.
- The RSI on the weekly scale is positively placed. However, the stochastics oscillator has witnessed the bearish crossover from an overbought zone. Thus, short term consolidation or profit booking could be possible but a "buy on dips" strategy needs to be adopted in Nifty for the medium term.

BankNifty, 02-Dec, Weekly Chart

- The index began the November month on a positive note, and continued bullish momentum throughout. On the back of that, the index has crossed the previous all-time high and settled the week on the positive note at 43104.
- Technically, the index has witnessed the breakout of a cup and handle pattern on a weekly scale as highlighted in the above chart. As per this pattern, the index might test 46000 in the short term and 50000-51000 in the medium term as long as it holds the support at 37386 on a weekly closing basis.
- On the down side, the recent breakout point of 41800 will act as a short term support followed by 34 Weekly exponential moving average (WEMA), which is placed close to 38963 levels.
- The RSI on the weekly scale is positively placed. However, the stochastics oscillator has witnessed the bearish crossover from an overbought zone. Thus, short term consolidation or profit booking could be possible but a "buy on dips" strategy needs to be adopted in BankNifty for the medium term.
